Ryder offers wide range of dry van, refrigerated, flatbed, and storage trailers to fit your fleet needs. Below are some of the uses across industries for trailers available from Ryder.

RYDER COMMERCIAL TRAILERS

Over the Road (OTR) Trailers

Designed for the long haul, OTR trailers are manufactured for medium- to high-volume shipments between warehouses, factories, and distribution centers to job sights, stores, and event locations. Over the road trailers include 53' dry van options (without a lift gate), specialty flatbed, and refrigerated (reefer) trailers available in multiple model years.

Cartage Trailers

Specialized for short-distance deliveries with quick load/unload capabilities, Ryder's 53' dry van cartage trailers are ideal for the transportation of non-perishable goods. These items include raw materials for construction sites and manufacturing plants, as well as goods sent between retail distribution centers, local freight carriers, and third-party logistics providers.

Storage Trailers

Ideal for mobile inventory management, storage trailers offer temporary warehousing solutions with weather-protected security for items such as seasonal overstock, medical supplies, and food products. Due to their widespread availability and adaptability, these efficient, cost-effective trailers are compatible with most loading docks, forklifts, and pallet jacks.
